

Subscribe »

Give a Gift »

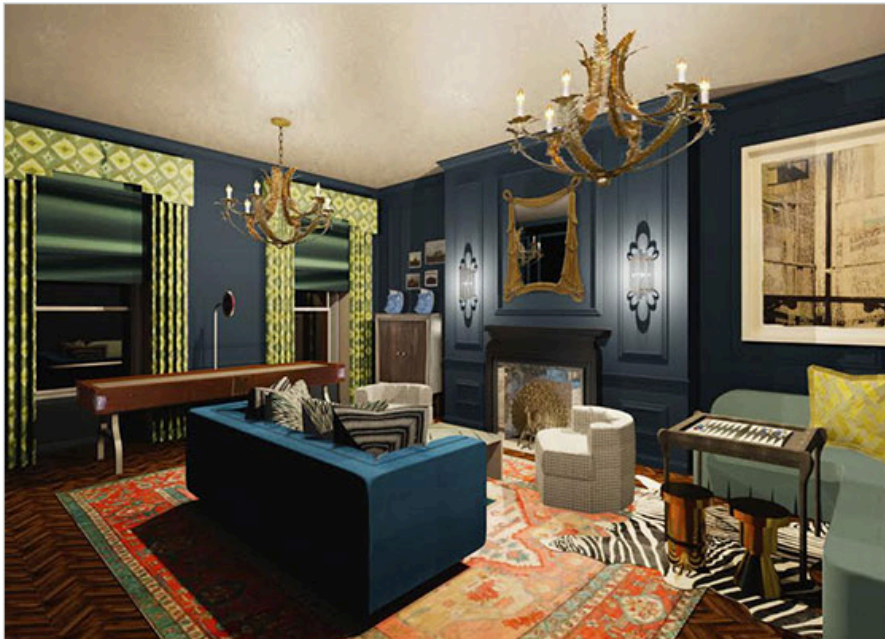

iPad Edition »

Design News

The latest sales, interior-design events, and industry affairs.

By Katie Levingston Published Sep 28, 2015  Share

 Comment

A rendering of the "Game Night" game room by Marks & Frantz Design that will premiere Nov 11 at Holiday House NYC.

(Photo: Courtesy of Marks & Frantz Design)

Reading France

Immerse yourself in French culture and design at a book signing and discussion at the Rizzoli Bookstore (1133 Broadway, nr. 25th St.; 800-522-6657) on Friday, November 6, from 6 to 7:30 p.m., with Florence de Dampierre, author of French Chic Living, and Alexandre de Vogüé, author of A Day at Chateau de Vaux-le-Vicomte. The two Francophiles will discuss their works: de Vogüé's account of one 17th-century French castle, and Dampierre's guide to creating stylish and charming French-style homes.

Innovative Materials

Do you really know the story behind your curtains? Learn all about textile innovation, design, and sustainability at the New York School of Interior Design (170 E. 70th St., nr. Lexington Ave.; 212-472-1500) on Wednesday, November 11, at 6 p.m. In "Beyond Aesthetics: Innovation in Materials," Carol Derby, vice-president of research and development at Designtex, and Andrew Dent, vice-president of Material ConneXion, will discuss the latest advances in textile technology. Tickets are $12 general admission; register here.

Holiday Inspo

Head over to the eighth annual Holiday House NYC, which, in partnership with Traditional Home magazine, will welcome visitors from November 11 to December 2 at the Academy Mansion (2 E. 63rd St.) to see the latest work from interior designers like Kathleen Walsh Interiors, Paris Forino Design, and Antonio Buzzetta. Ogle a game room custom designed by female design duo Marks & Frantz's, or a Valentine's Day–inspired sitting room by Darrin Varden Design. Tickets are $35, and proceeds benefit the Breast Cancer Research Foundation.